

McKinsey lecture for students of Wrocław University of Economics

Topic: „Four cornerstones of value creation”

The four cornerstones of finance and value creation are built upon deep and broad research of McKinsey experts. Inspired with renowned books and publications by McKinsey this lecture was designed for senior management and finance professionals to acquaint them with main drivers of value creation. In this session one of McKinsey's corporate finance experts will discuss how these four principles are being factored in long-term strategic decisions.

Faculty

Siddharth Periwal has been with McKinsey & Company's corporate finance team for around 10 years. He has served clients on various corporate finance topics like M&A, valuation, portfolio management, finance capability building, performance management, investor relations. He has served clients mainly in Oil & Gas, metals and mining and consumer goods sectors. Siddharth has also led several corporate finance related training and workshops for clients and colleagues.

April 9th, 2015